The Jardins de Vertumne, in Ohey, invite you to discover seasonal terroir products this autumn. The gardens will feature a vegetable market as well as an exhibition. Join the fun in September 2019.

This event celebrates cucurbits and other autumnal vegetables: onion, leek, garlic, shallot, squash, potato... all grown organically, without the use of chemicals. It's time to rediscover how naturally good they taste.

The program

- Seasonal vegetable market
- Visit of a field
- Botanical exhibition of cucurbit varieties
- Sale of decorating items and plants for gardens
- Local, sustainable craft
- "Martine's gnomes"

- Aurélie' Orérides: jewels and moving creations
- and many more surprises.

Entry is free.
